“In-Flight” Exhibition

submitted by Catherine Burkhard

The national Guild of Book Workers is finishing up its 2-1/2 years of their "In Flight" exhibition which has been to venues all across the U.S. It is finishing up in Austin at the HRC on the University of Texas campus.

The juried exhibition includes book art, fine bindings, letterpress items, and calligraphy pieces. I personally have a calligraphy piece in the exhibit.

The exhibit began May 10, and will run thru July 17.

For directions to HRC, go to:

www.hrc.utexas.edu/about/visitor

Then from there you can click "Exhibitions and Events", then "Current Exhibitions", and see the "In Flight" exhibition listed and its purpose.

For a closer look at my piece, you can go to:

<http://palimpsest.stanford.edu/byorg/gbw/gallery/inflight/14.shtml>

Check around for the other pieces -- several used calligraphy in their books.

Hang in there with the long addresses for the Web sites.

The boxes will be centerpieces for their tables and each table will bid on the mystery gifts that are in this box. We are supporting this project because reading words does lift the spirit and makes us grow. We are asking all of the Dallas area artists to become a part of this endeavor. Let's all be part of creating an artistic box for
